The Game of Life.

Wit eager hand Hope deftly weaves The mantras that our pride would do, With many a dagger of increase.

The maidens greet his strain to-day, They lay to morrow, and she flows him, Now she believes what he'll say.

Philosophers die at the slunder, But both are stopp'd by crystal bars, And stand outside to watch and wonder.

Our feet of clay trip up each other, We wish of other seek the sky; We want to see the world as it is, Yet none can tell us "How" or "Why?"

Our hearts like clocks, keep ticking fast, We climb and laugh, we fall and weep, Till will be gone into a sleep.

And thus we play the game of Life, In molly gowns and Grief and Pleasure, Now we are glad, and now we're wailing, For which the sexton takes our measure.

Last Charge of the Old Guard. A new French work gives the following grand picture of the last desperate charge of Napoleon's "Old Guard," at Waterloo.

"On the day the artillery of the Guard under Drouot, maintained its own renown, and the Guard itself had frequently been used to restore the battle in various parts of the field, and always with success.

"In a moment Napoleon saw that he could not sustain the attack of so many fresh troops, if once allowed to form a junction with the allied forces; and he determined to stake his fate on one bold cast, and endeavored to pierce the allied center with a grand charge of the Old Guard, and thus throw himself between the two armies.

Swimming Race With a Shark.

Young gentlemen young gentlemen skylarking at this time! For shame disturbing the whole wardrobe! Since you are so wakaful you shall make yourselves useful.

"Not my turn, sir," whined I. "Not 'answer me back, sir," retorted our first lieutenant, as kind hearted a man as I have ever known.

"I landed at a boat's reach, and the men went to work with a will. The heavy pieces of brilliant white or colored coral, that grew up on the reef like trees, were ruthlessly broken off and lifted into the boat.

"Willis, in one of his letters from the West, describes a race between a train of cars and a thunder-storm. 'Do overtake a thunder shower, whirl through it and outrun it, was the first of the day's exciting novelties.

"The specimens were hardly disengaged from the foreign matter about them, when my attention was attracted by a shoal of shovel-nosed sharks fighting over the body of my dead porpoise.

"The whole of the matter, and was hanged to you," I responded. "I will swim off to you," knowing that I could swim two lengths of the boat while they pulled one, so heavily was she loaded.

"I was his brother, Mr. William Weyer. It was his arm, that I expected, and which had sent him the dispatch that caused the blunder. At the first civil and military authorities seemed disposed to be angry. But the amazed look of the Major soon showed that the trick was its first victim.

"The old guard felt the presence of the immense responsibility, and resolved not to prove unworthy of the great trust committed to it. Nothing could be more inspiring than the example of the old guard. It had never receded before from a human foe, and the allied forces beheld with awe its firm and steady advance to the final charge.

"I should to them to keep their course or I'd fix 'em. Harvey shouted back to me in a voice that sounded tremulous, taunting me with slow swimming. I answered without losing a stroke that I would show 'em what I could do, and that by the force of the tide they would fairly come across my course.

MR. DOUGLAS IN THE SOUTH.

His Reception and Speech at Norfolk, Va. Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Herald. NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23. The Little Giant arrived here on yesterday. His reception was most enthusiastic.

"I thought I was a 'goner,' but the old fellow kept his hold and dragged me to the boat, and then, laying hold of my trousers by the seat, and a little more, raised my body with a force that, at the same time nearly scalped and unseated me, into the boat as though I was another stone to complete the load, and then sinking upon the thwart, burst into tears.

"When I recovered my senses I was in my hammock, under the hands of the assistant surgeon; for the surgeon having found a lump of crustacea tucked in my bosom, had deserted me for his favorite. But I rallied quickly, and was about my duties the next day, and before that was able to pour out my gratitude to the noble fellows, whose judicious conduct as well as active exertions had saved me from a horrible death.

"Question—If they, the seceders States, secede from the Union upon the inauguration of a seceder from the Union? Do this I emphatically answer no—[Great applause.] The election of a man to the Presidency by the American people, in conformity to the constitution of the United States, would not justify any attempt at dissolving this glorious confederacy.

"Voices—'No, no' 'Ball me say no, Douglas.' Mr. DOUGLAS—I answer emphatically that it is the duty of the President of the United States, and all others in authority under him, to enforce the laws of the United States as passed by Congress and as the Court expounds them.

"I am very frank in answering these questions. I am not in favor of any policy which would tend to give rise to complaints or murmurings, much less of such as would call for resistance on any quarter. I acknowledge the right whenever a grievance be done too burdensome to be borne.

Foreign Intervention in Mexico.

We have the best authority for stating that the Mexican question is on the point of being prematurely settled by a decisive intervention of four of the great Powers most deeply interested in the restoration of order throughout the dominions of our distracted neighborhood.

"The bases of operation for all religious opinions, and of a modified establishment for the Roman Catholic Church, are understood to have been already accepted by the constitutionalists under Juan Comonfort on the one part, and by the clerical party under Miramon on the other.

"The grounds of this action, already submitted to the administration at Washington, are, that the party of Juarez, which might have been established as the supreme executive more than a year ago, under the terms of the treaty proposed by Senor Comonfort to the Washington government, has demonstrated its incapacity of conquering power, and the United States have definitely abdicated their pretensions to aid in this conquest; that the party of Miramon in like manner has proved itself dependent upon an isolated intervention in Spain, which is in every point of view undesirable; and that the interests of the subjects of the intervening Powers, and of civilization generally, can no longer be left at the mercy of the parties, which have which has raged for six years in Mexico, and has reduced the country to the very brink of chaos.

"It is unnecessary for us to point out to our readers the gravity and importance of this act, on the part of the European States. Our own government is understood to have announced that, while a pacific intervention of the sort contemplated, if it fails to command the assistance, cannot provoke the hostility of the United States, no armed interference to enforce its provisions must be made without the previous notice communicated to the administration at Washington.

"The results reached are attributed principally to the activity of the Prussian Minister in Mexico, whose countrymen are largely represented in the foreign population of the republic, and to the influence of Lord John Russell.

Representative Convention.

The Democratic Convention for the 4th Congressional District will be held at the Convention Hotel, Detroit, on Friday, Sept. 7, 1860, for the purpose of electing a candidate for Representative in the Legislature.

6th District Senatorial Convention.

The Democratic Convention for the 6th Senatorial District will be held at the Convention Hotel, Detroit, on Friday, Sept. 7, 1860, for the purpose of electing a candidate for Senator in the Legislature.

The Census.

The Census Marshal of the 1st, 2d, and 3d districts of this County have completed the enumeration of the inhabitants, and we are able to lay the results before you.

The enumeration of the First district was made by Jones Swearingen, Esq., of Ypsilanti, and the population of the several Townships, compared with the Census of 1850, is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Township and Population (1850 vs 1860). Rows include Ann Arbor City, Ann Arbor Village, Northfield, Webster, etc.

The Second district was taken by N. B. Nye, Esq., and R. Deane, Esq., of this City. Compared as above it is:

Table with 2 columns: Township and Population (1850 vs 1860). Rows include Ann Arbor City, Ann Arbor Village, Northfield, Webster, etc.

The Third district was taken by J. D. Cozer, Esq., of Manchester, and gave a population as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Township and Population (1850 vs 1860). Rows include Ann Arbor City, Ann Arbor Village, Northfield, Webster, etc.

The enumeration of the Fourth district has been completed, and the Census Marshal, Mr. E. Hantz, has promised us the figures in time for our next issue.

Mr. A. P. Mills has opened his Fall Goods, and is exhibiting an attractive assortment. He makes choice selections.

We invite attention to the Card of Miss Jennie E. Evans in another column. Miss L. has taught music for several years with success, and we are confident that she will give the fullest satisfaction to those who may entrust their daughters to her charge.

Mack & Schmidt, late C. Mack, have removed to their new and elegant store, corner of Main and Liberty streets, and offer for the inspection of their numerous customers one of the most beautiful and roomy stores in the City and a new and well-stocked stock of Fall Goods. Go and see them.

From the American Publishers, L. Scott & Co., we have received the August number of the North British Review, with the following table of contents:

Recent Discoveries in Astronomy. Dr. Brown's Life and Works. Scottish Nationality—Social and Intellectual.

Colonial Constitutions and Defences. Modern Poetry. Mr. Hairs' History of the Consulate and the Empire.

Imaginative Literature. La Verite sur la Russie. Recent Rationalism in the Church of England.

Recent Publications. $3 a year; with three other Reviews and $2 a year.

Wines & Knives are on hand with an extensive stock of Dry Goods purchased expressly for the Fall trade.

Wm. Wagner has just returned from New York with a large stock of cloths, cassimers and vestings, and other goods in his line.

Three Wives Visit their Husband in Prison.—Charles Haynes, once a respectable and fine appearing dry-goods clerk of Niles, Michigan, married a young and beautiful lady of that place.

Hon. A. M. Stephens for Douglas.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 1. An immense audience of ladies and gentlemen assembled at the City Hall Park to hear the Hon. A. M. Stephens.

Mr. Stephens said he was for Douglas and Johnson, the regular nominees, whether Douglas received two-thirds of the Electoral vote or not.

According to the usage of the party he received the two-thirds vote of the Convention, and he (Stephens) supported the time-honored platform of non-intervention.

The objections urged against Douglas were, that he refused to say it was the duty of Congress to do what they would not do themselves.

Douglas refused to say it was the duty of Congress to pass laws to protect slavery in the territories; hence they opposed him, and refused to vote for such a law themselves.

Mr. Stephens defended Douglas against the charge that he would not yield to the decision of the Supreme Court, and said that Douglas agreed with every principle decided by the Dred Scott case.

He insisted that the point that a territorial legislature might constitutionally regulate slavery had not been decided. No case involving this principle had been before the Court.

The position of Mr. Douglas is that of perfect equality between the citizens of all the States with respect to the rights of persons and property.

Stated Mr. Douglas believed that every principle decided by the Dred Scott case, and that he would not yield to the decision of the Supreme Court.

Gov. Letcher Declares for Douglas. The Richmond (Va.) Index gives publicity to the following correspondence:
